As a self made millionaire I wake up at 4am everyday to check my stocks portfolio and workout. Though my last name may be Rockefeller, I only started out with a few hundred thousand from my family.

By 7am, I've already had 5 cold showers alongside my 10 espresso shots to get off to a good day. Next up breakfast!

I go to my favorite gourmet breakfast chain, Starbucks. And could you believe that they did not know my name or order! I’m going to have to get my father on them.

Instead of apologizing for their ignorance, they tell me to install this new app. FoodFast+. For a measly $5 a month (peasant change) I can save my favorite orders, cancel orders, and even fast track my food. I told them that no one tells me what to do except for my daddy and stormed off. Then downloaded the app of course.

After a tiring day of watching my portfolio decrease 3%, I am starving. Instead of having a butler bring me food i decide to use my invaluable time. I decide to use the FoodFast+ app and order ahead to McDonalds and save my time.

And just then, my father called me from his office in the empire state building. I am needed for some boring meeting. Thankfully with this new app I am able to cancel my order and save the time small time of those workers.
